

Welburn Hall Weekly

Welburn Hall School

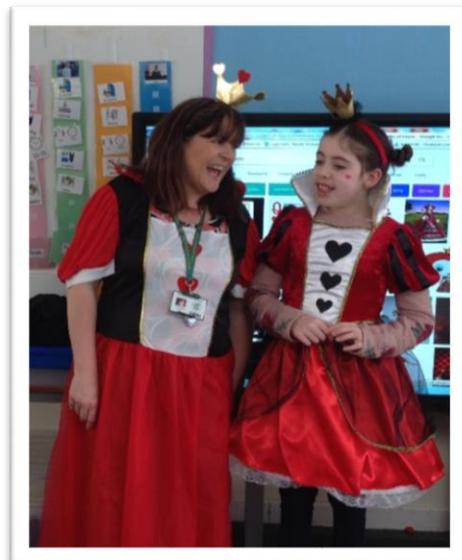

Friday 16th March 2018

Thursday 8th March world book day finally came to Welburn Hall! The day was wonderful with children and adults dressing as characters from different books. Students took part in a quiz and showed their knowledge. Activities in class included making book marks and covers and role play. In the afternoon session staff and students took part in a readathon and we were treated to some excellent readings.

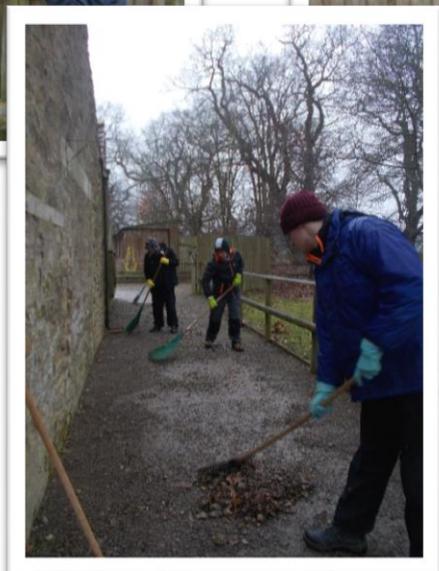

The students were amazing listeners. Prizes were given and all students were presented with a book voucher. These vouchers can be redeemed in local book stores by the end of the month. Thank you all for the support you give us in hearing your child read. More literacy activities are currently being planned for the summer term. Carry on reading!

KS2 enjoying lots of stories!

These college students have worked their socks off at work experience this week at the NCBP. They showed great perseverance as the weather was shocking but they continued path clearing regardless. Some excellent team work with the students helping each other and great ready for work attitudes. Well done everyone, it is a real pleasure working with you at this fantastic placement.
