Heads-up!

Dear Parents and Carers

Well, we've had our first flurry of snowfall this week! Please can parents be aware that if we are going to close school, it will only be in the most extreme circumstances and to keep everyone safe. As long as pupils can be taught and travel safely, we will open.

In the event of a closure, we have a strict schedule to follow which is from North Yorks Council. We inform them, then yourselves, the staff and the media. This will be done by text, emails, Facebook and on radio announcements as well as North Yorkshire's School Closures page, which they update very quickly.

Sometimes taxi providers like to pick children up early when there is snow, however we cannot let children leave early until we know that parents are informed.

We appreciate your support with communication as the weather gets colder now and no doubt there will be more snowfall over winter – hopefully not too much!

Can we please also ensure the children have adequate warm clothing including hats, gloves and scarves as Welburn can get exceptionally cold. Thank you in advance!

Mr Scott's Nurture group have also been busy building their own versions of stone age dwellings in Design Technology.

We think that they've done a brilliant job!

Last week, Mrs Clapton's class enjoyed some time out ten pin bowling!

Every student got a medal and all worked really well together as a team. Three of our bowlers got strikes and one student scored over 100 points. Good work everyone!

Mr Kaufman's class really enjoyed their weekly swimming session.

Everyone joined in to practise their pool skills and build confidence in the water.

Turning Tides

In April of this year, Angloamerican; owner of Whitby's Woodsmith Mine, launched Turning Tides, a new project to support 15-to-21-year-olds.

Turning Tides aims to improve /promote emotional resilience and wellbeing of the young people living in our local communities, encouraging them to thrive. Turning Tides is about putting frameworks in place that build coping strategies, resilience and confidence.

Turning Tides provides long term, flexible and person-centred support for up to 250 local young people. This is being delivered by a team of specialists from local charities and young people will be able to access one-to-one coaching support for up to 12 months.

A big part of emotional wellbeing involves having opportunities to socialise and take part in regular activities and this programme will help build the capacity of local community organisations to achieve this. It has been created in partnership with three local youth organisations; Sidewalk Youth Project, The Junction and The Link Charitable Trust, with management support from Bridges Outcomes Partnership.

Aimed at those young people who aren't already accessing support and who are only just beginning to show signs of struggling; Turning Tides is not looking to provide more clinical support, but to undertake some preventative work in the hope that young people don't then get to a crisis point.

One of the unique aspects of the Turning Tides programme is that it runs over a longer period of time and is not restricted by a short number of sessions.
